

Lyrics for "Maggie's Vegetable Pie"

© 2024 Mark Beckwith

Maggie grew a garden
With seeds to sow
Up from the ground
She watched it grow

Red tomatoes
Carrots 'n' spinach
Around the garden
She built a fence

Weeks passed by
With water and sun
Vegetables grew
She was having fun

Soon she'd pick 'em
I'll tell you why
She planned to bake
A vegetable pie

It was time
So no delay
She would pick her veggies
The next day
Morning came
It was at dawn
She raced to her garden
But her vegetables
were gone

Inside the fence
The carrots were not there
Spinach and tomatoes
Had disappeared

She asked Cat and Squirrel
"I beg your pardon
Who took the vegetables
From my garden?"

Cat shook his head
Squirrel did not know
Who took all
Maggie's vegetables

She ran to the house
Started to cry
She could not bake
Her vegetable pie

At the door
She heard a tiny tap
She opened it
Veggies on the mat

A gopher smiled and
I think he spoke too
"I picked these vegetables
Just for you."

The garden veggies
Gopher found
He'd pulled them though
A hole underground
She was mad
But changed her mood
Maggie thanked the gopher
For returning her food

She went to the kitchen
After saying goodbye
Then Maggie baked
Her delicious pie

She opened the oven
It smelled so pleasing
She cut the pie
Into four big pieces

Maggie called from
The open door
Then laid out four plates
On the floor

"Hey, Cat, Squirrel
Gopher too.
Please come and eat
What I baked for you."

Maggie cared
So she shared
We all should ...
Share, share, share
